

Amanda Freedle
Deputy Chief Accountant

Amanda Freedle is the Deputy Chief Accountant for the Office of the Chief Accountant at the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC).

In this role, Ms. Freedle serves as an advisor to the Deputy Comptroller and Chief Accountant, identifies emerging accounting issues, serves as a technical accounting consultant, and coordinates interagency and internal policy initiatives. She also manages internal and external stakeholder relationships.

Before serving in this role, Ms. Freedle was a Senior Accounting Policy Advisor providing accounting support for large bank examination teams. She worked on various policy initiatives and served as a member of the OCC's National Retail Risk Committee. Before joining the OCC, she worked in various financial services positions and as an external auditor.

Ms. Freedle is a Certified Public Accountant with an undergraduate degree in business from Wake Forest University and a master's degree in accounting from North Carolina State University.